

Peter Mallett has worked in education in various roles and locations throughout his career. He started in special education in his home state of New Hampshire and continued in that role working in Austin, Texas, before moving to Mexico. At Tecnológico de Monterrey in Mexico, Peter taught advanced English and English in International Baccalaureate programs. He received his Bachelor's Degree in English Literature from the University of New Hampshire. He earned his Master's Degree in Teaching ESL & Bilingual Education at the Universidad de Alcalá, in Madrid Spain, where he also taught in the public schools. In his lessons he is passionate about incorporating critical thinking skills.

Outside of teaching and traveling, Peter competed as an elite triathlete on the U.S. and international circuit. He is still an avid cyclist but has since retired, preferring to eat tacos and read a good book or keep up with the news.
